

RELIGIOUS FRENZY THE CAUSE OF THE WOMAN'S MURDER

talk of it by the hour if he could get anybody to listen to him. I don't know whether he talked about it to other than Mormons, but to our people he was a nuisance.

"He was a bad boy, the black sheep of the Young family. Soon after his father left for Europe he appeared here one afternoon in a most dilapidated condition. He said he had no money, but the elders who were living at his father's place had told him he might sleep there.

HIS GHASTLY CONVERSATION.

"He remained to dinner, and all through the meal talked on the subject of 'blood atonement,' his conversation at times taking the most ghastly tinge. After dinner he borrowed some money from my husband and went away. We did not see him again."

James Spence, janitor of the fashionable apartment-house in which Col. Willard Young and his family reside said to-day that young Young often spoke to him about the doctrine of "blood atonement."

"I didn't know what he was talking about half the time," said Spence. He used to come around here sometimes when the Young family was out and jabber to me by the hour. I always thought he was a little light in the upper story.

"Unless I am badly mistaken he was here Thursday night about 1 o'clock.

WAS HE LOOKING FOR MONEY?

"A man rang the outside doorbell for nearly half an hour that night. I looked out of the window and thought I recognized him as oung. He wore an overcoat and stood out in the rain looking up at the windows of the house. I think he came up here to try to get money enough to get away on."

John D. McQuarrie, President of the Eastern Mormon Mission, at No. 172 East Eighty-first street, knew William Hooper Young very well.

"He was a reckless young man," said Mr. McQuarrie, "but I do not think he had nerve enough to commit a premeditated murder.

"I have observed him closely in my acquaintance with him and my opinion is that he drugged the woman so that he could steal her jewelry. Being unfamiliar with the drug he became alarmed when she did not recover, thought she was dead and then tried to cut the body up. In doing this he killed her."

THE TRUNK IS IN CHICAGO.

Capt. Titus received a despatch from Chicago to-day saying that the trunk which had contained the body of Anna Pulitzer, and which was shipped by Young from this city, had arrived there. It was being held by Police Lieut. Andrew Rohan to await a claimant.

The trunk had been consigned through the Wells-Fargo Express by "C. S. Elling, northwest corner of Fifty-second street and Tenth avenue, New York," to "C. S. Ellin, Chicago."

The trunk has been sealed and is on its way back to the police of this city.

"Mrs. Pulitzer was murdered for the purpose of robbery," said Chief of Detectives Titus to-day. "This chap Young was an outcast, living in his father's home on sufferance, and he was down to his last penny."

"Whether he knew this woman for any time I cannot say. The janitor of the Clarence says he saw Young take this woman to his flat one day last week, but he may be mistaken. Anyhow, he was at his wife's end for money when he met her at dinner in Mock's restaurant Tuesday and saw her diamond rings and earrings. He tried to induce her to go to his room and then he followed her home. How he induced her to go to his room when he met her at midnight is a mystery. Once she went there he had her at his mercy. He drugged her, that is certain."

MURDERED WOMAN'S JEWELRY.

The woman's husband gave to the police to-day this description of the jewelry which Young took from her body after killing her.

"My wife's diamond earrings were worth $150," he said. "They were three-quarter carat stones, a little off color and not perfect. They were bought at Mrs. Lynch's. I afterward brought them to Harber's in East Houston street, off the Bowery, and had the setting altered. They were in a flat screw setting.

"Then there was a wedding ring, a plain gold band with the initials J. P. to A. N. P. on the inside. In my wife's stock, which was found in Young's room, was a modest brooch. It was a circle of small leaves made of gold, enamelled white and green. In the centre was a small pearl. It cost $15 when new.

"The value of the jewelry taken was about $175, but Young could not raise half that amount on it.

"I did not know Young and from his picture, published to-day, I have no recollection of ever having seen him. I am sure my wife did not know him or she would have mentioned the fact when she told me of his having accosted her in Mock's restaurant. I am sure he was the man who spoke to her, but if he threatened her she did not tell me of it. I believe the man had seen her rings and earrings and made up his mind to murder her for them."

WOMAN WAS TIRED OF YOUNG.

Assistant District-Attorney Garvan, who has been at work on the case ever since the identity of the woman was established, is convinced that Young's motive in the murder was robbery.

"He was a loafer," said Mr. Garvan, "and had been getting money from the woman. Doubtless she got tired of keeping two men, and, thinking more of Pulitzer than she did of Young, she refused to give Young any more money."

"Young knew that she had diamonds and jewelry. He enticed her to his flat with the full intention of killing her. She left some of her rings and her watch at home, but she had a pair of diamond ear-rings valued at $150 and a ring valued at $100.

"It is my belief that he drugged the woman and killed her while she was under the influence of the drug."

"If he is captured, we have evidence to fasten the crime upon him without a doubt. I have ordered an analysis of the contents of the woman's stomach and I expect that it will show that she had been drugged before she was killed."

Coroner Scholer is making desperate efforts to butt into the case. He threatens to order a second autopsy.

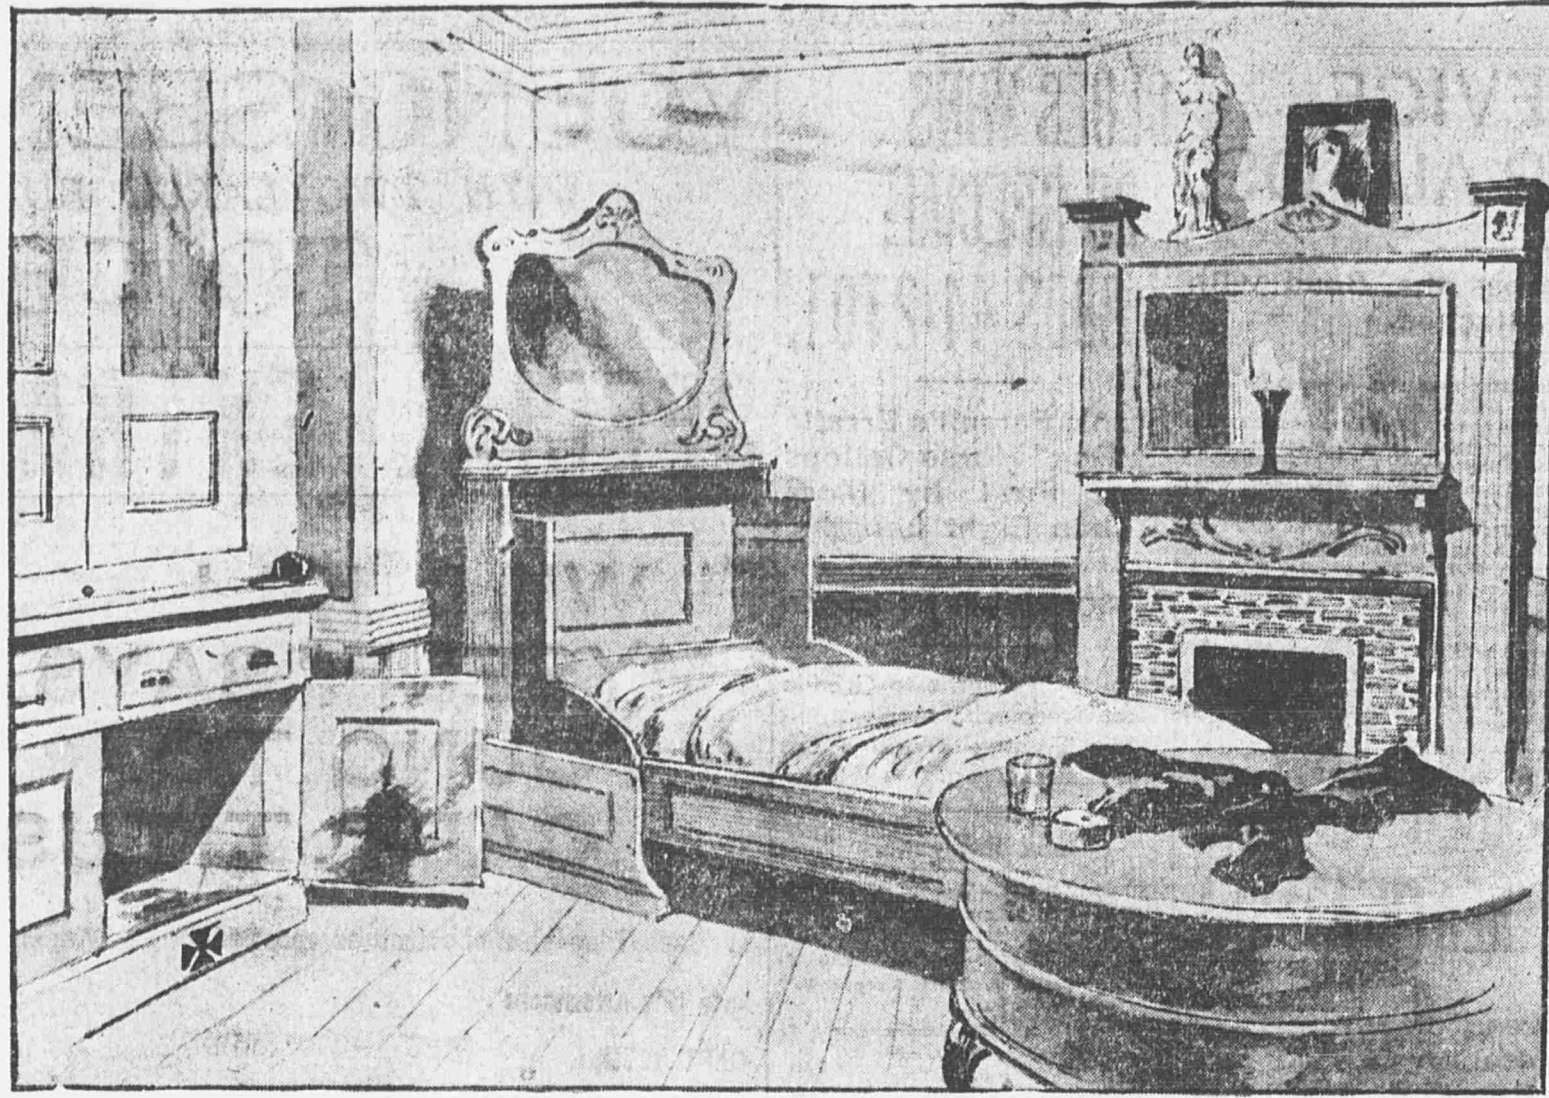

Dr. Schmittberger to-day took the beer glasses found in Young's room to Dr. Ott Schultz, of the United Laboratory, at No. 45 East Forty-second street, for analysis.

YOUNG IS A MORPHINE FIEND, HIS FRIENDS SAY.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 20.—Friends and relatives of Young, who is accused of the murder of Mrs. Anna Pulitzer in New York, say that the young man had always been considered weak-minded and on several occasions had shown signs of dementia.

Early, it is stated, he had been addicted to the use of morphine. Young left Salt Lake City about 1895, but has been back several times.

PLAY HANGING MAY BE REAL.

Boy Who Pretended to Be Murderer Is Seriously Strangled.

GAMBIEN, N. J., Sept. 20.—"Playing at hanging" by boys here this afternoon will probably result in the death of one of those who took part. The boys were playing in a lot, when one of them suggested that they give an imitation of the hanging of Lafayette Gruff, who was executed yesterday for the murder of his wife.

The suggestion met with favor, and John Peale, twelve years old, volunteered to take the part of Gruff. A rope was procured and one end was tied around the boy's neck. He was then placed on a barrel under a tree and the free end of the rope was then thrown over a limb of the tree. Some one kicked the barrel from under the boy. The rope caught in the limb of the tree and Peale was left suspended in the air. The frightened boys were powerless to aid him, but their screams were heard by Samuel Ladd, a fireman. When Ladd reached the scene Peale was black in the face. Ladd cut him down quickly. His condition is serious.

BIT HER BOARDER'S ARM.

Quarrel About Board Bill Resulted in Filing of Landlady.

"This woman says you bit her," said Magistrate Mott to-day in the West Side Court to Miss Rosina Morton. Mrs. Nellie Seaton made the complaint. She, with her grown daughter, had occupied a room at Miss Morton's furnished-room house, No. 347 West Fifty-fourth street.

"I don't deny it, Judge. I bit her in self-defense," said Miss Morton. "They owe me money, and they tried to get their trunks out of the house. She fired a frying-pan and a lot of dishes at me. The frying-pan hit me on the head. She grabbed me around the neck with her elbow near my mouth. I just bit her on the arm."

The women engaged in a dispute, which the Magistrate interrupted. "I don't care anything about that," he said. "I fine the prisoner $5."

ACTORS TO AID MINERS.

Fractured Skull in a Fall.

Joseph Dietl, eighteen years old, of No. 183 East Seventy-third street, while working on the Manhattan "L" structure at One Hundred and Twenty-second street and Second avenue to-day, fell, fracturing his skull. While at work he lost his balance and fell to the floor of the station, a distance of fifteen feet. He died before an ambulance arrived.

DEATH MAY FOLLOW FALL.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20.—Anthony Staeton, twenty-nine years old, of No. 1 Lister street, fell 25 feet from a derrick at the Atlas Steel Works here to-day. It is feared his back is broken and that he may die. He was taken to St. James's Hospital.

HOW THE EVENING WORLD SOLVED MURDER MYSTERY.

(From The Evening World's Late Editions Yesterday.)

REMARKABLE FEATURES OF THE CANAL TRAGEDY.

The woman was killed in the Tenderloin, Tuesday night, probably near her home.

The murderer is a swarthy man. He packed the body in a trunk and kept it in his room until Wednesday afternoon.

Then he went to Hoboken, where he hired a buggy large enough to carry a trunk, saying he wanted to take his sister from a train.

Coming back to New York, he loaded the trunk containing the body in the buggy and drove to New Jersey.

At a lonely spot just outside Jersey City he took the body from the trunk, weighted it with the hitching strap and weight that was in the buggy and sank it in the Morris Canal.

necessary for our missionaries to have long whiskers.

In proof of this last assertion Elder Taylor pointed to his two companions, neither of whom has whiskers.

"This man Young never was a member of the Mormon Church," said Elder Taylor. "He knows absolutely nothing about its doctrines. He is a man of low morals and certainly not the kind of a man apt to join the Mormon Church. His father is not an active member of the Church in Utah. Although he is a son of Brigham Young this man's father has not been active in the Church for fifteen years."

Elder Taylor in response to questioning said he did not know how many wives Young's father had, or even that he had any.

"There is nothing in the teachings of the Mormon Church," declared Elder Taylor, "that would permit of a crime like this. Young has a weak character. He occupied apartments separate from us. We seldom met him except in the hall, going into or coming from his apartments. He came and went as he pleased, spending the most of his time in reading the advertisements in the newspapers in a vain attempt to secure employment."

"On the night this murder is supposed to have been committed we were all in bed by 11 o'clock, knew of nothing unusual and heard no unusual sounds. We might have heard the opening and closing of a door, but, of course, paid no particular attention to it. We have talked the matter over among ourselves and find that none of us heard anything."

"Our theory is that Young lured this unfortunate into the flat and gave her a drink in which there was this so-called 'knockout.' When he saw that she was dead or nearly so, we believe that rather than create a scene he made sure of his work and decided to kill her and hide her body."

"The idea that the woman was a sacrifice to the Mormon religion is absurd and nonsensical."

When asked why Miss Elizabeth Dickinson had left the Mormon Church, Elder Taylor said it was because she could not view matters as the teachings of the Church demanded. He said that when she left she had requested the elders to call at her home.

"The Church had nothing to do with Young or with the crime."

YOUNG WELL KNOWN IN SALT LAKE CITY.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Sept. 20.—William Hooper Young, suspected by the police as the murderer of Mrs. Pulitzer, in New York, is the son of John W. Young, a son of Brigham Young, who is a well-known railroad contractor, having become wealthy from contracts in the construction of Utah and Northern and Central railroads.

At the time of Brigham Young's death in 1843 John A. Young was one of the former's counselors. He was tried under the Edmunds law, charged with polygamy, but was acquitted on a technicality. William Hooper Young is well-known in Salt Lake, having resided here up to a few years ago.

This Man Wanted for Woman's Murder.

William Hooper Young is described in a general alarm sent out to the police of the country by the New York Detective Bureau as follows:

Thirty years old.
Height, 5 feet 7 inches.
Weight, 125 pounds.
Complexion, swarthy.
Hair, dark and wavy.
Nose, sharp pointed, and hooked.
Mustache, thin, short and black.
Teeth, regular and white.
General expression, repellent.
Clothes, dark sack suit, white shirt, black Fedora hat.

NEIGHBOR OF YOUNG SAYS SHE SAW A HORRIBLE FACE.

Father of Girl Scared Into Screaming Believes It Was the Murderer.

The flat above Young is occupied by the family of William Craig, an accountant in the Health Department.

Early Wednesday morning, Craig tells the police, his daughter was awakened by hearing a strange sound just outside the window which opens out on the fire-escape. Miss Craig got out of bed and listened intently, and in a little while she again heard the sound.

It was as if some creature was clawing a difficult way up the fire-escape. She peered into the hazy light of the dawn, but at first she could discern nothing. But the scraping noise still continued, and Miss Craig recalled to mind a certain story of Edgar Allen Poe, whose work she had been reading the night before.

Paralyzed with superstitious terror, the girl remained leaning against the bed, with her staring eyes riveted upon the window.

Suddenly in the dim light she thought she beheld the hazy outline of a face. It seemed to be of a swarthy hue, and the deep-set black eyes were fixed upon her with a baleful glare.

Overcome with horror, the girl uttered a scream. The face disappeared as she did so.

William Craig thinks it was Young, but can advance no theory as to why he should have been peering into his daughter's room at that hour.

He denies all connection with Young, and said that Young was not even a member of the Mormon Church.

"There is absolutely nothing in the Mormon Church calling for a blood atonement," declared Elder Taylor. "Many persons believe that when a woman enters the Mormon Church she sells herself body and soul to the Church. This is untrue. Any person has the right to leave the Church whenever they see fit to do so."
